Judge Ernest Houston Boyd Sr. (1879 – 1956), son of Alvin Whitten Boyd, prominent pioneer Cookeville lawyer and State Senator, and Mary Goodpasture Boyd, was born and reared in Cookeville and was a graduate of Cumberland University.

Judge Boyd was elected Putnam County Superintendent of Schools at age 22, and while serving in that office, in joint effort with the Nashville Superintendent of Schools organized the Middle Tennessee Teachers Association, and served as its first secretary.

Judge Boyd served as County Attorney, District Attorney-General of the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Tennessee, and Chancellor of the Fourth Chancery Division of Tennessee.

Judge Boyd served as Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows for State of Tennessee and three times represented Tennessee in the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows. He also served as Grand Patriarch of the Rebecca Lodge for State of Tennessee.

Judge Boyd served for many years as a member of the Tennessee Historical Commission and the Tennessee Historical Society.

He was ruling elder, clerk of the session, and chairman of the pulpit committee of the First Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. for many years. He was moderator of the Presbytery and served as commissioner to the Grand Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

He was married to Mattie Ragland. She was the daughter of Dr. William Hardin Ragland and granddaughter of Dr. William Ragland and Thomas Harvey Butler, who served as Tennessee Secretary of State.

Judge Boyd practiced law at different times with his father, Alvin W. Boyd; his uncle, John Boyd; his brother, Grover Boyd; and sons, Ernest Houston Boyd Jr., and William Hardin Boyd.

Judge Boyd was well known as an historian, and was the author of Early History of Putnam County 1854- 1954, Nuggets of Putnam County History, and many articles on Putnam County History. He lectured extensively throughout Tennessee.

Mattie Ragland (Mrs. Ernest H. Boyd) b. 18 April 1885 – d. 27 February 1981, left and Rose Butler (Mrs. Edward) Ragland 1856 – 1959 right.

Mattie Ragland Boyd taught at Cookeville City School, after receiving her masters degree from Bascobel College, until her marriage to Ernest Houston Boyd, Sr. in 1912. She also served as organist at the Cookeville First Methodist Church prior to her marriage. She was the daughter of Dr. William H.

Ragland, an early Cookeville physician, and Elizabeth Lou Butler Ragland. Her grandparents were Dr. William Ragland, a Smith County physician and Thomas Harvey Butler, a Gainesboro lawyer and former Tennessee Secretary of State.

Rosa Butler (Mrs. Edward) Ragland was the daughter of Thomas Harvey Butler and Sara Ann Holford Butler. Her father was a Gainesboro lawyer and Tennessee Secretary of State.

Mrs. Ragland and her husband's home for many years was on Washington Avenue in Cookeville, which was later the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mackie Shanks and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Watson.

Mrs. Ragland's sons owned Ragland-Potter Wholesale Grocery, Ragland Brothers Wholesale Grocery, Cooper and Martin Stores, and the Harvey Ragland Wholesale Grocery Co. of Nashville, Chattanooga and Birmingham.

Jefferson Wiseman Boyd & Mary Ann "Polly" Jared's son was Alvin Whitten Boyd who was the father of Judge Ernest Houston Boyd who md Mattie Ragland.

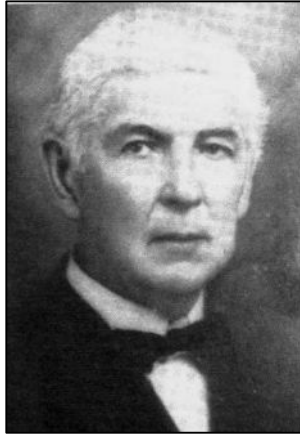

James McDonald Goodpasture (1827–1876) and wife, Ova Arnold Goodpasture (1839- 1918). A young medical doctor, son of John and Margery Bryan Goodpasture of Hilham, Tennessee, Dr. Goodpasture came to Cookeville when the decision was made to locate Cookeville where it is now situated, but before the original town lots were ready to sell, and he and his brother purchased land for his home at Washington Avenue and First Street, which land joined the 40 acre tract that had been purchased to subdivide for the town of Cookeville. He immediately constructed his home on this site. This house is now the home of his grandson's widow, Nina (Mrs. Eugene F.) Jared. At that time, no one lived on the adjacent 40 acre tract which was to be Cookeville.

Dr. Goodpasture was one of the first doctors to locate in Cookeville. When the original town lots were ready to sell, Dr. Goodpasture purchased one of the first lots sold and immediately constructed his medical office building, which was a one story brick building on the north side of the public square. This building, the first brick building in Cookeville, remained there until about 1938 when V.R. Williams' Ben Franklin "Dime Store" was constructed on the site.

Dr. Goodpasture and wife, Ova Arnold Goodpasture, had four children: Avo (Mrs. J.F.) Dyer, Mary (Mrs. Alvin W.) Boyd, John Bryan Goodpasture, and Margie (Mrs. E.H.) Jared. His daughter, Mary Boyd, was one of the first children born in Cookeville.

Church services were held in the Goodpasture home before there was a church in Cookeville. Dr. Goodpasture was the first Clerk of the Session and charter elder of the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Dr. William Hardin Ragland (1842-1927), a confederate war veteran and prominent pioneer Cookeville physician, was the son of Dr. William Ragland of Smith County and the grandson of Dr. Hardin Ragland of Wilson County. He was married to Elizabeth Lou Butler. They were the parents of Mattie Ragland (Mrs. Ernest Houston) Boyd, Mary Ragland (Mrs. Thomas G.) Dillon, C.B. Ragland, John Ragland, Edward Ragland, Ernest Ragland, Nan Ragland and Grace Ragland. Taken about 1898, this photograph shows Mary Butler Ragland Dillon and Mattie Ragland Boyd, the daughters of Dr. William Hardin Ragland, a prominent early Cookeville physician, and his wife, Elizabeth Lou Butler Ragland. Mattie Ragland Boyd received a master's degree from Bascobel College in 1905. She taught school in Cookeville until her marriage to Ernest Houston Boyd, Sr. in 1912. Mary Butler Ragland married Dr. T. G. Dillon and moved to Kentucky. The Ragland home was a large two-story home adjacent to the Glade Spring on Reagan Street in the original portion of Cookeville. Courtesy of Ernest Houston Boyd – pg. 149: Pictorial History of Putnam County Tennessee by 1st State Bank of Cookeville, TN.

Breakfast Rotary Inducts Honorary Members 'Boyd first 'Honorary Member'

Mike O'Mara, left, inducted Julia Boyd, widow of Alvin Boyd, into the Cookeville Breakfast Rotary Club as the club's first "Honorary Member." Alvin Boyd was a long-time active member of the club, and Julia participated with him in many local and district events. Julia was also honored by becoming a Paul Harris Fellow, as the club donated $1,000 to the Rotary Foundation in her honor.

Death Removes Ernest M. Ragland:

Ernest M. Ragland, 54, a well known wholesale grocer of Nashville, and a son of the late Dr. W. H. Ragland, of Cookeville, died Friday at his home, in Nashville. His death, was due to a carbuncle on the back of his neck, with which he had been afflicted for about ten days, when the gravity of his ailment was realized and his death came as a shock to his relatives and friends.

He was a grandson of Charles Burton, a prominent pioneer merchant and business man, of the western portion of Putnam county.

In his young manhood, Ernest Ragland located in Murfreesboro, where for many years he was engaged in the wholesale grocery business with his brother, Charles B. Ragland. Later, he engaged in the wholesale grocery business on his own account, and had wholesale houses at Lebanon and at other points.

For the past seven years, he had been associated in business with his brother, Charles B. Ragland, in the well known wholesale grocery firm of C. B. Ragland and company, of Nashville.

He was well known, as a businessman, throughout this section of the state, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a member of the Methodist Church. His funeral, which took place Sunday afternoon, at Murfreesboro, was attended by a number of relatives and friends from Cookeville.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gladys Anderson Ragland, and by three brothers and sisters, as follows: W. E. Ragland, of Murfreesboro; John B. Ragland, of Cookeville; Charles B. Ragland, of Nashville; Mrs. T. G. Dillion, of Campbellsville, KY; Mrs. Ernest H. Boyd, of Cookeville, and Miss Nan Ragland, of Carthage.

He was an uncle of Harvey E. Ragland and Mrs. Eugene Jared, of this city.

Mrs. Mattie Smith Boyd Dies At Madison Home:

Mrs. Mattie Smith Boyd, 88, widow of Dr. William M. Boyd, of Madison, and a relative of a number of Putnam County Boyds, died at her home in Madison Tuesday morning. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist Church there Wednesday.

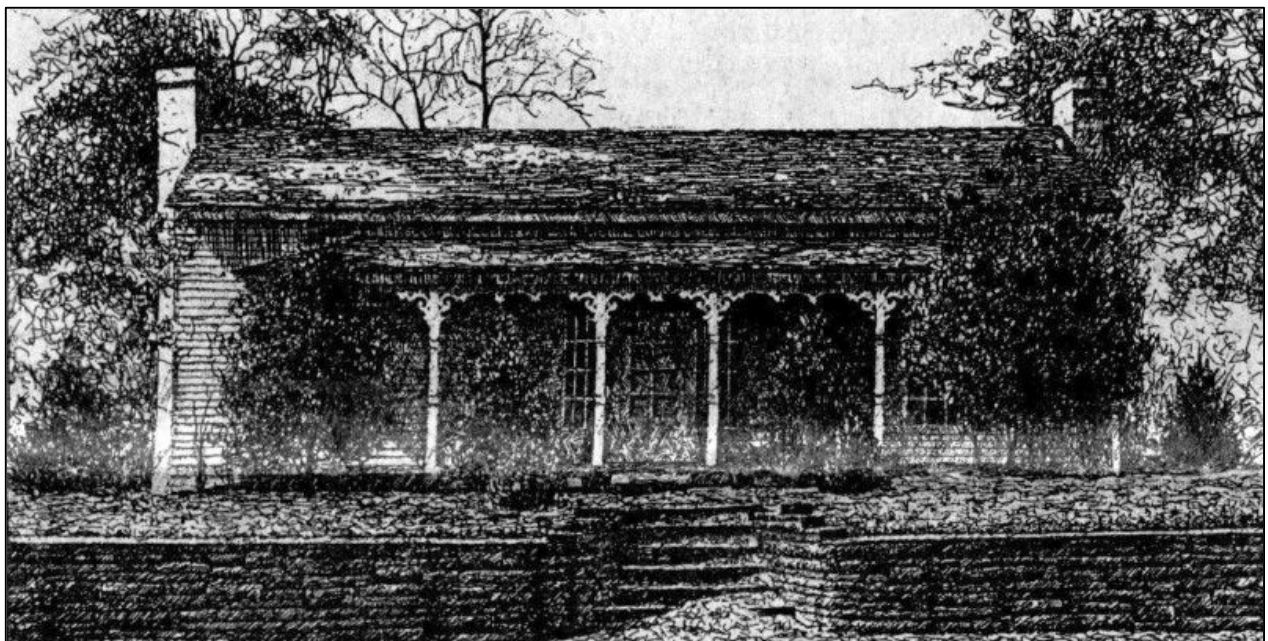

Mrs. Boyd's husband was born and reared near Rock Springs. He was a brother of the late Alvin W. Boyd and Houston S. Boyd, who were members of the Cookeville Bar.

GETTING READY FOR THE NEXT 150 YEARS

The first residence built in Cookeville – shown above as it is today and below at an earlier time – is, since February the new location of advertising and public relations firm WD Stone & Associates. Located at 114 N. Washington Ave., it was built in 1856 by Dr. James McDonald Goodpasture. It remained in his family until 1998. It's more recent commercial use was as Ms. Nina's Christmas House, named for the widow of Goodpasture's grandson, Eugene Franklin Jared. The bricks of the chimneys were handmade in the backyard. The original part of the house was constructed of logs held together with wooden pegs. History has recorded that the logs and other building materials used in the construction were hauled by ox cart from Hilham, where Goodpasture owned other property. The Stones purchased the property this year and moved the full-service creative communications agency to the address just off the city square. It fronts Washington Avenue and is bounded in the back by Jefferson Avenue. Eugene Franklin Jared md Nina Ragland.

ERNEST HOUSTON BOYD SR.

Tennessee The Volunteer State Vol 2

Biographies of professional individuals (including but not limited to finance, medicine, teaching, law and politics) residing in Tennessee from 1769-1923

Ernest Houston Boyd, prominent attorney of Cookeville, is a man of wide and varied interests. He was born in Cookeville, on the 1st of October, 1880, a son of Alvin Whitten and Mary (Goodpasture) Boyd, both natives of Tennessee.

For many years his father engaged in the practice of law at Cookeville, and for several years he held the office of clerk and master of the chancery court and he represented the tenth senatorial district in the general assemblies of 1897 and 1899. His demise occurred in 1912. In the acquirement of his early education Ernest Houston Boyd attended the schools of Cookeville and subsequently attended both the literary and law departments of Cumberland University. He was graduated from that institution in 1911, with the LL. B. degree and immediately engaged in practice at Cookeville in partnership with his father, under the firm name of Boyd & Boyd. Prior to taking up the study of law Mr. Boyd engaged in teaching school and was county superintendent of schools of Putnam county from 1903 to 1911.

His law practice now takes up his time and attention, and since 1912 he has held the office of county attorney of Putnam county. Mr. Boyd brought to the profession innate ability and thorough training and he well merits the success he has achieved.

On the 21st of August, 1912, he was married to Miss Mattie Ragland and to their union five children have been born: Alvin Whitten, William Hardin Ragland, Mary Butler, Avo Dyer and Houston Goodpasture. Mr. Boyd has always given his political allegiance to the democratic party and the principles for which it stands. He was assistant clerk of the state senate for one term, 1907. Fraternally he is identified with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Masons. He was grand patriarch of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Tennessee during 1908-09; was grand representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Seattle, Washington, in 1909, and at Atlanta in 1910; and he has been chairman of the judiciary committee of the Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Tennessee for several years. Mr. Boyd was formerly a member of the board of trustees of the Odd Fellows Orphanage at Clarksville and for several years he was a member of the city board of education of Cookeville. Mr. Boyd's religious faith is that of the Presbyterian church and he is an Elder in the local church. He has frequently served as Moderator of his Presbytery and in 1916 he represented the Cumberland Mountain Presbytery in the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Atlantic City. He has been deeply interested in Tennessee history from childhood and has written a great deal on the subject. He has frequently delivered lectures on Tennessee history to State Teachers' Institutes and other educational meetings. He is a member of the Tennessee Historical Commission. As may be gathered from the preceding statements, Mr. Boyd is essentially public-spirited and is highly esteemed in Cookeville for his integrity and sterling worth.
