Ronald Eder
June 21, 1942 - March 26, 2006

If life could only bring again,
the days I took for granted when
to hear your voice was just a call away.
Oh what I'd give for just some time,
to say the things that slipped my mind
There's so much now
I'd really like to say.
But I can never go back
when we did the things we did back then.
I'll store those precious memories
in my mind.
I'll take what you've instilled in me;
I'll try to be all I can be
And walk the path that you have left behind.

I sure miss you; life will never be the same with you not here.
Each passing day has brought much pain.
But with God's grace my strength remains,
I sure miss you, but heaven's sweeter with you there.

The little things that seemed so small are now gold in a memory vault.
I cherish every one I have of you.
Now I can see and recognize the part you played to shape my life.
I often see you in the things I do.
In God's design and master plan He saw the hurting hearts of man.
(Written by Gerald Crabb)

*Daddy, we miss you so much,
but we'll forever love you and keep you in our hearts.
Love, Norma, Carol and Caleb*

The Cookeville Press* [Vol. X, No. 44, Page 5, Date: 19 Aug 1897] : An Interesting Citizen. - There is quite an interesting character in the person of Esq. M. B. Gentry, of Avoton, this county. He was born Dec. 12, 1818, which makes him near 79 years of age. He is active and vigorous and in possession of all his faculties, with the exception that his sight is somewhat impaired by reason of an affectation of the lids. He is an expert printer and was the publisher of an important paper in Alabama during the race for the presidency between Gen. Jackson and White. He is a veteran of the Indian war of '36 and '40 and for valiant service in the campaign he is drawing a modest pension. In his young days he was a great admirer of race horses and was reputed to be one of the best trainers and jockeys in the South. Mr. Gentry is a loyal, uncompromising Democrat at the ratio of 16 to 1, and he does not arrive at his conclusions from what others say, as he has a splendid education and is a close observer. He is spending his declining years with his family on a comfortable farm, and is enjoying the fruits of a well spent life.

JACKSON COUNTY -- A Dodson Branch man was killed in a one-vehicle traffic crash on Allentown Road in Jackson County on Saturday morning, according to the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

Jeremy Duane Rector, 28, died in the accident, says a report by State Trooper Sgt. Greg Trammel.

Rector was driving a 1988 Ford Ranger pickup west on Allentown Road and was making a left-hand downhill turn when he lost control of the truck, the report says.

The truck struck an embankment on the south side of the road, then re-entered the roadway and overturned several times on the north side while traveling down a hillside, the trooper said.

The vehicle came to final rest on its top in a ravine some 200 feet from the point at which it had first struck the embankment, the report says.

Rector was not using a safety belt, but in the opinion of the trooper, use of a belt would have made no difference, the report says.

Rector, who was born in Putnam County, was the son of Donnie and Teresa Rector. He was a construction worker.
