As a "revenooer" in the Cumberland foothills of TN, about the turn of the century, he had numerous adventures and gun fights. Once, after he had moved to N.M., he received word from the brothers of some moonshiners he had killed in a raid on a still, when they resisted, that they would kill him if he ever returned to their locality. He immediately sent word back to the brothers who had threatened him, that he would walk along the main street of their town at a specified time; and he did so, making the trip from New Mexico for that express purpose. He was not molested (a kind of "High Noon" in reverse). Among his children: Ridley Draper Stone. Among his grandchildren: Ridley Draper Stone, Jr. and Sterling Rundle Stone. Among his great grandchildren: Carolyn Stone; Madeline Joanne Stone; and Robert Norman Stone.
