

FRANK BAIN
Baxter Seminary Graduate: 1952
Baxter, Putnam Co., TN

There were many opportunities at Baxter. I admired many of the teachers. I remember Mr. Earle Smith, the science teacher; Miss Smellage, senior English teacher who was encouraging; and Mr. Cunningham who taught a young boys' Sunday school class. He took us hiking to Gentry's Bluff, and to weiner roasts. I especially remember the Uppermans who were very influential.

(Frank Bain, 1952 Baxter Seminary senior).

I have a "Miss Hill" story: Almost every Wednesday my Uncle Van went fishing. I finally took "off" one day to go with him. I had to see Mill Hill to get a note to return to class. She just about "blew her top." Mr. Earle Smith asked me later: "What did you catch?" I didn't know if he meant 1. what did I catch from Miss Hill! or 2. what fish did I catch?!

I was Co-Captain of the football team which played two years undefeated.

My siblings were Pearl, Nell, Ruth, Phyllis, Bill, and Elizabeth. All of us attended Baxter Seminary. My father was in charge of the farm.

In my career, I was a Computer Programmer at Werthan Bag Co., Nashville, and retired in 1999. My niece, Rebecca Bain, is located at the WPLN station at Metro Center, Nashville, where my offices were in the same building! She is Bill's daughter.

My class celebrated its 50th anniversary in 2002. Now I enjoy my retired life and gardening.

Source: All Roads Lead to Baxter by Anita Cunningham Mitchell, pgs. 261 & 262.

<http://www.ajalmbert.com>