Houston, former sheriff of DeKalb Co., TN was ambushed and killed on the road to Silver Point from his farm. The story goes he was shot by a revengeful brother. Houston shot and killed the ambusher's brother over a gambling argument which ended when the brother produced a knife and Houston shot and killed him. The brother killed Houston after he got out of prison. Houston and Francis (Smith) Gill had 13 children. Their son Preston Stewart Gill was the 2nd youngest.

Lt. Athel Lee Gill Now Listed as Dead

Lt. (jg) Athel Lee Gill, U. S. Naval Reserve, formerly reported missing in a plane crash 70 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, September 18, has been listed as dead, according to information from the Navy Department recently received by his wife, Mrs. Dimple Maddux Gill of 929 Montrose Avenue.

The plane, a C-47 Transport Command, was on a routine flight from Anchorage to Fairbanks at the time of the accident. Lieutenant Gill was one of 19 persons announced by the War Department as missing in the crash.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Napoleon Gill of Silver Point, Tenn. Lieutenant Gill served as athletic coach and instructor at Smyrna High School prior to entering the service in January 1942. A graduate of Smithville High School at Smithville, Tenn., and a Tennessee Polytechnic Institute at Cookeville, Tenn., he had been stationed in the Aleutian Islands for 23 months prior to the crash.

Surviving in addition to his widow and parents, are three sisters, Mrs. L. A. Jared of Buffalo Valley, Tenn., Mrs. Melvin Holland of Decherd, Tenn., and Mrs. James Craig of Silver Point; and four brothers, Alfred and Floyd Gill, both of Silver Point, and Ewell Gill of Tullahoma, Tenn., and William L. Gill, aviation ordnance man third class, U. S. Navy, serving in the Pacific area.

ATHEL LEE GILL OBT.

Lt. Athel Gill Died In An Airplane Crash.

Lt. (j.g.) Athel Lee Gill, 34, husband of Mrs. Dimple Maddux Gill, was among the 19 persons listed as missing yesterday by the war department in the crash September 18 on a C-47 Air Transport Command plane on Mt. McKinley, 70 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska.

The Alaska division of the A.T.C. said ground rescue parties have not been able to reach the scene of the crash, but that no signs of life have been observed by crews of search planes. The A.F.C. plane was on a routine flight from Anchorage to Fairbanks.

The last radio contact was made with the plane when it was over Summit, Alaska, more than half way to Fairbanks, the war department stated. The wreckage was found only after exhaustive search.

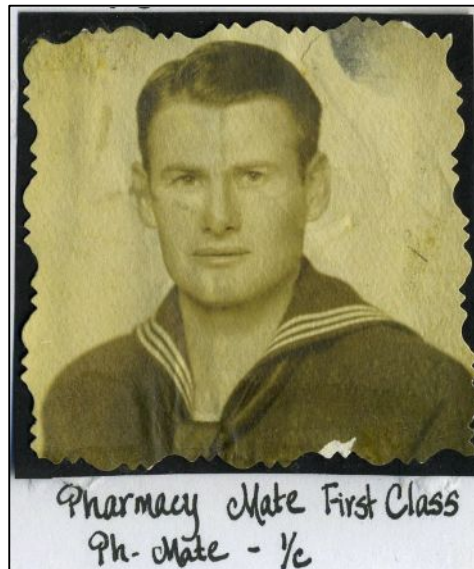

Lt. Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Napoleon Gill, Silver Point, served as athletic coach and instructor at Smyrna High School prior to entering the service in January 1942. A graduate of Smithville High School and Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, he has been stationed as a communications officer at a naval air station in the Aleutians near Dutch Harbor for about 2 years.
