 (Hoskins) Carr

About 7 o'clock last Friday morning near the home of John Roberts in the 13th District of Putnam County, M. W. Carr shot and instantly killed his brother James Carr firing one time with a pistol. Several persons witnessed the tragedy, the cause of which we have been unable to learn. M. W. Carr has not been arrested, having left the scene of the shooting before any officers arrived, but will probably surrender soon. Both men were married.

*James Camillas Carr was killed by his brother in a stabbing incident at his family home. My aunt Moncie tells me in his wallet they found a little piece of yellowed paper with my Grandmother's name on it. Oshie Daisy Carr. Oshie died giving birth to my father in 1930 in Silver Point TN. Moncie said that she remembers the stories they told and it was quite a scandal. They had a wake at the Carr's home and they put something over his eyes and marched him to be buried. He (James) donated the land for the Carr cemetery in Putnam. Source: Phillips Family Tree: Ancestry.com

PUTNAM YOUTH IS BELIEVED SLAIN TO PREVENT TALKING

Investigation of the slaying of Ridley Carr, 15 at Boma, on Saturday night led officers to the belief the youth had been silenced to prevent him from turning state’s evidence.

The son of Wade Carr, he was slashed with a knife and fatally stabbed in the heart before he told Toy Carr and Walter Shanks of that district he had been cut by William Hancock, 17, son of Rube Hancock, farmer of near Boma.

With Slain Vet: According to the sheriff’s office, Carr was one of three persons last seen with Zeb Waller, whose decapitated body was found on the Tennessee Central right of way on July 22.

It first appeared that Waller had been killed by a train, but after an investigation it appeared the World War Veteran had been slain. A coroner’s jury returned a verdict of murder.

Carr was one of three men suspected in the Walter slaying and officers tonight expressed the opinion his companions believed he was about to turn state’s evidence. In order to prevent this, officers stated his companions are believed to have killed him.

Told of Assailant: The stabbing occurred at Shank’s store near where a church meeting was in session about 9 o’clock Saturday night. Carr lived only long enough to tell the two residents of the Boma section that Hancock had cut him.

Residents of Boma, a small town on the railroad, are incensed over the slaying of Carr, but refused to talk, saying they know only “what we hear.”

The body of Carr was prepared for burial at the home and funeral services were held at the Carr graveyard Monday afternoon. The Nashville Tennessean.

A BOY’S KILLER GIVES UP: IS IN JAIL WAITING HEARING

William Hancock, 17, Held on Charger of Slashing Ridley Carr, 15.

LITIGATION STARTED

Are Working on Theory That He Was Killed in Effort to Prevent Talking.

WITH WALLER DEATH

William Hancock, 17, is in the Putnam County jail here awaiting trial Tuesday before Magistrate D. J. Wade, a charge of murdering Ridley Carr, 15, at Shanks' store at about 9 o'clock Saturday night. Hancock, a son of Rube Hancock, of near Boma, gave up to Hubert Crawford late Tuesday, after a three-day search.

Hancock and Carr fought Saturday and Carr was cut and slashed all over his body, and fatally stabbed in the heart. Hancock's hands and face also cut. Carr lived long enough to tell Toy Carr and Walter Shanks residents of that district that Hancock had cut him.

Police and officers are making an investigation on that theory that Carr had knowledge of the killing of Zeb Waller. 34, on the night of July 21, whose decapitated body was found on Tennessee Central right of way.

Residents of Boma, however, would give no information that would substantiate the theory. It was believed Carr was killed in an effort to prevent the turning of state's evidence.

He was the son of Wade Carr, a Boma farmer. Funeral services were held at the residence Monday afternoon and burial was in the Carr graveyard.

PETTY, HANCOCK MURDER HEARINGS, BUCKNER CASE FEATURES COURT DOCKET:

Two-Hundred Eleven Cases Scheduled For Three Weeks' Session Beginning Tuesday: Camp, Holladay To Preside.

Virgil Petty, avowed killer of "Uncle" Matt McDonald, aged 12th district farmer, and Willie Hancock, youthful slayer of Ridley Carr, and John Buckner, held on charges of incest and rape, will occupy the spotlight of Putnam county's sensational criminal court session which will begin Tuesday for a three weeks' duration.

Stabbed Youth, Claim:

Willie Hancock, 17, of Boma, faces trial on charges of stabbing Ridley Carr, 15, son of Wade Carr, of Boma, on the night of August 1, 1931, at a "Holy Roller" meeting at Hickey. Testimony at a preliminary hearing for Hancock before Magistrate D. L. Wade showed that Hancock and Carr engaged in a fight near the church, and Hancock slashed Carr and finally killed him by stabbing him in the heart. Hancock's case was continued at the January term of court.

Putnam County Herald, Cookeville, TN: Thursday, 12 May 1932.

JURY PICKED FOR MURDER CASE IN HANCOCK HEARING:

Jury for the hearing of Willie Hancock, 17-year old killer of Ridley Carr, 15, near Boma, last August was selected Wednesday afternoon following the charges of Judge Harry Camp to the jury in the Virgil Petty murder trial. Dr. T. J. Smith, who examined the body of Carr shortly after the killing, testified out of order Wednesday afternoon by agreement of the counsel on both sides. He declared that Carr died as a result of a wound "inflicted with a sharp instrument: near the heart, and which, possible, entered that vital organ.

Wade Carr, father of the slain youth, was the first witness to testify this morning. He is prosecutor in the case. Counsel aiding Atty Gen. E. H. Boyd in the prosecution are John Holladay, Jimmie Clark, and W. L. Swallows. Counsel for the defense are Langford and McKay, and they entered a plea of not guilty in the case, and will contend that the killing was in self defense.

First Degree, Claim:

True bill returned by the grand jury against Hancock defined the crime as first degree murder. The killing took place at a church meeting at Hickey, near Boma, following an argument in which the two youths allegedly engaged. Witnesses, it was declared, watch the killing and offered no aid to the struggling youth. This report, however, had not been confirmed last Wednesday.

The jury for the Hancock case are Wheeler Harp, R. T. Parrott, Mack Hunter, R. T. Boatman, H. C. Carmack, P. C. Smith, Lester King, G. P. Hix, Arthur Grogan, Noah Morgan, E. L. Grooms, and J. H. Watson.

YOUTH GIVEN ONE YEAR IN MURDER TRIAL: COURT ADJOURNS SATURDAY:

Willie Hancock, 17, was given one year and a day in the Tennessee agricultural training school Saturday by a jury in Criminal Court here. He was held for the murder last August of Ridley Carr, 15, son of Wade Carr, of Boma.

FATHER, SON HELD FOR 'DICE GAME' KILLING AT BOMA:

Sheriff Says Youth Admits Shooting; Preliminary Hearing Today.

Edward Lattimore, 21, and his father, Columbus Lattimore, 50, DeKalb countians, are being held in jail here on charges of murder, in connection with the death of Toy Carr, 30, of the 11th district of Putnam county, which occurred near Boma Sunday.

Preliminary hearing for the two men is to be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock before Squire Pascal Matheny.

Sheriff Poteet who with deputies arrested the Lattimores at their home Sunday night, said that the son admitted that he shot Carr in an argument during a dice game, but did so in self defense. The elder Lattimore admitted being present at the time of the shooting, but denied any part in the slaying. Carr was almost instantly killed by two .38 caliber bullet wounds, one in the abdomen and one in the chest.

The murder warrants were sworn out by Wade Carr, father of the slain man.

Harvey Herrin also was arrested Sunday in connection with the case but was later released.

Sheriff Poteet quoted witnesses as saying the elder Lattimore handed the pistol to his son, who then shot Carr.

Also known as Mack.

From the Phillips 2000 Reunion book

Mack was the son of Thomas (Tom) Phillips, born circa 1834, and Jane Peek (Peak), born circa 1827. According to family oral history, Tom was killed in the battle of Chickamauga, near Chattanooga, Tennessee, on the 20th day of September, 1863. He was born March 29, 1862, near Hilham, we think, in what is now Overton County, Tennessee. It has been said that Mack never saw his father. He died May 3, 1934, in Putnam County, Tennessee, where they were living on the Mine Lick Creek. Rebecca was the daughter of William (Billie) Herren and Mary Vickers. She was born April 3, 1870, in the Silver Point area of Putnam County, and died October 16, 1960, in Baxter, Putnam County, Tennessee. They are buried in the Carr Cemetery, Putnam County, Tennessee. Mack's son, Dan, remembered that his father was a little man and was referred to as the "Little Dutchman" and that he was smart and educated. He liked to play the fiddle. During his life he logged, made moonshine (for his personal use), was a blacksmith, had gristmills, and ginned cotton. Early on, he had a gristmill on the Roaring River in the Hilham, Tennessee, area in what is now called Overton County. About 1891, he took his family to Putnam County, and settled in the Silver Point area. Here, he farmed and had a small store. Sometime in 1911, they moved to Gentry's Bluff, also in Putnam County, where he ran a "turbine wheel water mill" which ground the community's corn and ginned their cotton. Later, they must have returned to Mine Lick Creek as that is where they were living when he died. In the latter part of her life, Rebecca lived with her son Dan and his family in Baxter, Tennessee.

Zeb L. Waller Article

Foul Play Suspected In Boma Man's Death, Putnam County Herald, TN: Thursday, 23 July 1931.

Edmond Waller, Dead Man's Brother, To Make Investigation. Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict of Killed By a Train.

Found Decapitated; Feet Mangled: Mystery Surrounds Violent Death; Was Last Seen By Boy On Way From Church: Body Found In Middle Of Track, His Head Fifteen Feet Away.

BULLETIN: Possibility that Zeb Waller, 34, who was found dead on the Tennessee Central railroad track early Wednesday morning, met with foul play was hinted here Wednesday afternoon by his brother, Edmond Waller, who said that he would begin an investigation of the affair.

Zeb Waller, 34, ex-service man and farmer, was found dead on the Tennessee Central right-of-way near Boma early Wednesday morning, his body decapitated, one of his feet cut off, his legs broken, and his body cut and bruised.

Funeral services will be held at the Smellage cemetery this afternoon, it was announced Wednesday. Waller is survived by a brother, Edmond Waller, and two children, Bennett, 8, and Mabel Fay, 5. He had been divorced from his wife for three years, and she is now Mrs. Everett Brown, of Boma.

Waller was found by Thomas Roberts, 17, who reported to authorities. Amos Herron, Magistrate at Boma, named a coroner's jury, which made an examination and returned a verdict of killed by being struck by a train.

Mystery, however, surrounds the killing of Zeb Waller. The decapitation of his body was so smoothly done that it aroused suspicion of his brother, who told reporters Wednesday that he thought there was a possibility that his head was cut off before the train hit him, and that his body was placed on the track to cover up the crime.

Investigation at the scene of the killing disclosed the fact that Waller was struck by a west-bound train, likely passenger train No. 3, which passes the point in question at about 3:45. Residents living near the scene said the train never whistled as it went by.

Waller was last seen by Leonard Lowe, 14, as he was coming home from a church meeting at about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Waller was walking with Orville Herron, it was said, and another unidentified man. No eyewitnesses have been reported.

Edmond Waller told the Herald Wednesday that his brother had been living with him for the past two months, and that he had not been worried over anything, and that he had no cause for suicide. He admitted that he "drank a little."
