No public record of birth was kept in North Carolina until 1913; prior to that date, the researcher is more likely to find proof of the relationship between child and parent in the place where the parent died, not in the place where the child was born.

Mary Frances (Curtis) Denny: pg. 167- Political Development, 1890-1920 – Putnam County Tennessee 1850-1970 by Mary Jean DeLozier: Though many community leaders now urged women to exercise the franchise, there was considerable apprehension over women holding political offices. The Herald Newspaper carried letters, reprints from other newspapers, and editorials reflecting this fear. Mary F. Denny was the first announced as candidate for the Democratic nomination for Putnam County trustee. Mrs. Denny had held clerical and secretarial positions in the postal service, Cookeville town government, and at TPI; but in her campaign she found it necessary to explain that she needed the public office because she was the sole support of her invalid husband and son and to deny a rumor that her husband received a pension. She asked, “Is there any reason why I should be defeated just because I am a woman? I am asking for this office in order that I can better care for a man who cannot care for himself.” Mrs. Denny won the nomination and the election and served two terms as trustee.²⁶

SOURCE: Kinfolks of Granville County North Carolina 1765-1826 by Zae Hargett Gwynn

Published by Joseph W. Watson, 406 Piedmont Ave., Rocky Mount, NC – 1974

Introduction: Several criteria were used in selecting the deeds to be included in this book. The most important was to include all deeds proving or indicating relationships. Another was to select all deeds in which either the grantor or grantee, or both, lived in another county. This could indicated the counties from which people emigrated or to which they removed, many to other states. Also included are deeds in which both the grantor and grantee had the same surname. While this does not necessarily mean that they were related, it is a likely place to begin searching.

In many cases people sold land to their relatives in order to keep a tract from being divided. And there were many deeds of gift in which a normal price was stated. Since it was necessary to have a consideration named for the land or personal property, a high price would certainly make the gift seem more attractive.

Granville County has been found to be quite different from some other eastern North Carolina counties, namely, Edgecombe, Nash, and Halifax, in on respect. There were a very large number of merchants in Granville County from its beginning and they bought and resold quite a bit of the lands. They were noted, to a great extent, buying land at Sheriffs’ sales and buying from persons who removed to other states. This also applied to the buying of slaves for resale. In the other counties mentioned, the merchants had very little to do with the buying and selling of land and personal property.

Another difference between Granville and the above named counties is that the boundaries of Granville County at that time were mostly artificial and many tracts of land lay in two counties and quite often in two states. Many persons who inherited part of a home tract found that their part, when divided, lay in another county. So there were a great many of these “border line” sales and others by people living in a county which as actually only a few yards away.

All of the deeds in this book were abstracted by the late Zae Hargett Gwynn and the Tax List for 1769 was also copied and typed by her. This material would have filled at least three books of normal size. Therefore, it was thought best to select the deeds for inclusion in this book which seemed to give the most positive information for all genealogists. Joseph W. Watson

Hugh Wayne Denny wrote on: 18 August 2004: I would like to tell the new owner about the mural that is painted on the ceiling in the living room of that house. It is sunburst pattern (I vaguely remember what it looked like -- Kenneth Pullum says it is still there under the dropped ceiling) and was painted by Sam Dietz, Amanda's husband. (Samuel Milton Dietz, h/o Amanda Serena Lee Denney who was the d/o John Smith Denny & Nancy Henrietta Carlen. Samuel Milton Dietz was a Artist – Painter – Mechanic).

Hugh Wayne Denny wrote on: 6 September 2004: As I indicated earlier, I did go to Hendersonville TN this weekend to visit my mother and my brother and his family. I contacted the Westover Auto Sales and met Steven Westover. Very nice young man -- about 40 or so I would guess. His place of business -- looks like he primarily does auto repairs and sells a few cars and trucks.

They currently live on Hopewell Road and their kids go to school in Baxter and will continue to do so. Told him about the mural on the ceiling and gave him a copy of the photo showing what the house looked like 100 years ago! He said he was pleased to get the information and thought his wife would be thrilled with the photo.. He said that any of the Denny family was welcome to come by at any time. He said his wife was interested in doing some cleanup of the cemetery and did I mind? I said "No" and that I had hoped to get up there this spring and start cleaning up 60 years of nature's growth and did not make it but maybe I would be able to get on it next spring/summer.

Audrey thank you for chasing down the vital information which made it possible for me to contact the new owners.

Judge T. L. Denny is attending the bedside of his father Jonathan Denny, who is very low with pneumonia fever at his home in Buffalo Valley.

Source: Cookeville Press, TN: 17 April 1902, pg. 3: Jonathan Denny Obt.

The many relatives and friends of Jonathan Denny will sincerely regret to learn of his death, which occurred at his home in the eleventh District of Putnam County last Thursday. He was taken sick with pneumonia the preceeding Sunday. We learn that he was perfectly conscious until the last, and died happy in the love of his Lord and Savior and the full assurance of the immortality of the Soul and his peace with the Heavenly Father.

Mr. Denny was born in North Carolina and was brought to this county when quite young being one of the pioneers who were deprived even of an ordinary education, being about eighty-one years old at the time of his death.

He was a quiet, unpretentious farmer and never sought or desired public attention, but contented himself with the walks of rural life or “life on the farm.” He was always a moral, sober gentlemen of the old type now fast fading out of view, a friend of law and order, with all his neighbors as devoted friends who will cherish his memory and uphold his good name. He was the father of a large and interesting family of children among whom are Judge T. L. Denny and Silas Denny, prominent and well known citizens of this city. In common with his numerous friends, the PRESS joins in expression of regret and genuine sorrow.
