MRS. J. C. BARNES KILLS MRS. JUDD
Makes bond worth a million dollars.
Trial set for this afternoon.

Friday evening Mrs. J. C. Barnes entered the shopping train at Buffalo Valley walked through the car in the rear platform and shot Mrs. W. W. Judd who was standing there talking to some friends. Great excitement prevailed and Mrs. Barnes quietly left the train and was later arrested at her home by Sheriff Weeks who happened to be on the train and was kept under guard until Monday when she was brought to Cookeville for a trial before Esq. J. R. Douglass.

Mrs. Barnes is the second wife of J. C. Barnes and is a woman of good education and refinement, she formerly lived in Oklahoma where she was married to Mr. Barnes several years ago. Her neighbors are heartily in sympathy with her and speak well of her.

Mrs. Judd was the wife of W. W. Judd, the Tennessee Central depot agent at Double Springs. She has been operating the Judd Hotel at Double Springs. She was 39 years old and a woman of fine appearance. She leaves a husband and four children.

When the tragedy occurred Mrs. Judd was on her way to her home at Double Springs from Nashville. When the train stopped at Caney Fork Mrs. Judd went out on the rear platform of the coach, remaining there till the train reached Buffalo Valley. Mrs. Barnes who was at the station there, entered the passenger coach, walking through to the rear door, where she stood and fired the shot.

Mrs. Judd fell dead on the platform her body being brought on to Double Springs.

On the same train also was one of Mr. Barnes' daughters, who recently graduated from a Nashville college, returning home. She got off the train at Caney Fork station, near her home one mile from the Buffalo Valley depot.

Mr. Barnes is one of the best known men in this section of the state. He owns a fine farm near Caney Fork station. He was for many years a distiller in this county and now owns a saloon in Nashville, where he stays most of the time.

The remains of Mrs. Judd were interred Saturday afternoon at the Double Springs cemetery, the funeral being attended by a large crowd.

Mrs. Judd has one married daughter and a grown son. The latter is a bartender in Nashville. Mrs. Judd's maiden name was Della Pippin and she has large family connection in this county.

At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon Mrs. J. C. Barnes was arraigned before Esquire J. R. Douglass in the circuit court room of the courthouse in this city. The court room was crowded with spectators. Mrs. Barnes was accompanied by her husband, J. C. Barnes, her brother, H. T. Hearst of Evansville, Ind., her counsel, Worth Bryant and O. K. Holladay, and a number of friends.

The defense announced ready for trial. The prosecutor, W. W. Judd, husband of the victim of Mrs. Barnes announced that he was not ready for trial, as he had not had all of his witnesses summoned. The defense agreed to a continuance, but insisted upon bail for Mrs. Barnes, offering to give bond in any amount demanded. At first the prosecutor refused to agree for Mrs. Barnes to make bond, but later consented to her giving bond in the sum of $50,000. The case was then set for Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

When Mrs. Barnes; bond was prepared she and her husband signed it, and immediately a stream of citizens and business men of this city and county crowded around the desk and the bond was signed as long as there was enough space left on the margin to contain a signature. The bond is worth probably a million dollars.

JUDD, MRS. W. W.: Sensational Shooting -- Last Friday night Mrs. Jesse Crockett Barnes boarded the shopping train at Buffalo Valley, walked through the coach to the rear platform, and without speaking a word opened fire with a pistol on Mrs. W. W. Judd where she was standing. Every shot took effect and Mrs. Judd was instantly killed. Mrs. Barnes then quietly stepped off the train and started home. Sheriff A. L. Weeks was on the train in the smoking car, and overtook Mrs. Barnes just after she left the train and told her he would have to arrest her. She gave him her pistol and quietly submitted to arrest, but did not want to come to Cookeville on the train on which the tragedy occurred. The sheriff accompanied Mrs. Barnes home and during the night she broke down from the nervous strain and was not able to come to Cookeville until Monday. On that afternoon she was arraigned before Esq. J. R. Douglass, a warrant charging murder in the first degree having been sworn out by W. W. Judd.

The prosecution asked for a continuance of the hearing until Thursday and for a bond of $50,000. The bond was made out and leading business men from all over the county signed it without solicitation, it being the best bond ever made in Putnam county.

On Thursday Mrs. Barnes appeared before Esq. Douglass again, waived a hearing and was held to the grand jury on a $25,000 bond.

Mrs. Barnes is the wife of Jesse Crockett Barnes, and lives on a farm near Buffalo Valley. Mrs. Judd was the wife of W. W. Judd, station agent for the T. C. railroad at Double Springs.

Mrs. Judd was brought home on the train on which the tragedy was enacted. She was buried on Saturday evening in the presence of about 1,000 people.

The cause of the shooting was alleged intimacy between Mr. Barnes and Mrs. Judd. The tragic action is another case of the "unwritten law," usual in that a wronged woman sought vengeance. [Date 6/6/1912, Vol. X, No. 23, Page 7]

From this obt. the parties involved in this murder were the Barnes' and Judd's. Mattie Della Judd was 37 years old in 1912. Myrtle Barnes was 34 years old in 1910. William W. Judd husband of Mattie Della Judd was a station agent for the Tennessee Central Railroad at Double Springs in Putnam County Tennessee.

Apparently Myrtle Barnes thought that her husband, Jessie Crockett Barnes was having a friendly affair with Mattie Della Judd the wife of William W. Judd. Myrtle Barnes then shot and killed Mattie Della Judd.

MRS. BARNES NOT GUILTY:

The jury in the case of Mrs. J. C. Barnes, who was tried this week in the criminal court on a charge of shooting Mrs. W. W. Judd, returned a verdict of not guilty.

Cookeville Review, Smithville, TN
6 February 1913, No. 25

Mrs. Barnes Gets Verdict "Not Guilty."

The jury in the Barnes murder case in the Circuit Court at Cookeville reported Thursday morning, the verdict being "not guilty." The court room was crowded to overflowing when Capt. W. G. Sadler of Monterey, foreman of the jury announced the verdict.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Myrtle Barnes, wife of Jesse C. Barnes, killed Mrs. Delia Judd at Buffalo Valley on afternoon of May 31, 1912.

Mrs. Barnes is the wife of one of the most widely known farmers and business men in this section of the State. Just across the Caney Fork River from Buffalo Valley he owns one of the finest plantations in Middle Tennessee. He also has large real estate holdings in Oklahoma and is largely interest in banks and other corporations. His wife is a beautiful, highly cultured and intelligent woman.

On the afternoon of the tragedy, Mrs. Barnes left her home, near Buffalo Valley station, as the east bound Nashville and Monterey shopping train was approaching Buffalo Valley, and when the train stopped she entered the passenger coach and walked through it and onto the rear platform, where Mrs. Delia Judd of Double Springs was standing and fired fine pistol shots into her body. She then retraced her steps through the coach, stepping off the train and proceeded to her home.

That evening she was arrested by Sheriff Weeks. As soon as she sufficiently recovered from the nervous shock which she went to Cookeville for a preliminary hearing before Esq. J. R. Douglass. By agreement she was allowed bail and held to answer to the Criminal Court. Her bond at the time was signed by about fifty of the leading citizens of this county.

Mrs. Judd was the wife of W. W. Judd, proprietor of the Judd Hotel in Double Springs this county.

It was charged that Jesse C. Barnes and Mrs. Judd had been maintaining undue relations for several years; that Mrs. Barnes had long brooded over this conduct, and that on the day of the tragedy she was so thoroughly beside herself from worry over the affair that she went to the depot, boarded the Monterey and Nashville shopping train on which the alleged paramour of her husband was a passenger en route to her home in Double Springs from Nashville, and that she killed her.

MYRTLE (HURST) BARNES STORY

Myrtle Hurst Barnes was a Northern Methodist, a prohibitionist, and a Republican who followed her heart when in 1907 she traveled from Oklahoma to Tennessee to spend the rest of her life with Jesse Crockett Barnes. Barnes was a member of the Church of Christ, a purveyor of spirits, and a Southern Democrat who believed women should be seen and not heard. How then could two people who seemed so different become a couple? She was attracted to his charm and good looks and he was attracted to her "fire" and beauty.

Myrtle (Hurst) Barnes & her husband Jesse Crockett Barnes pictured left.

Myrtle listened to her heart when she went to extreme lengths to protect her marriage from an adulterous woman. On Decoration Day, May 11, 1912, she boarded the Tennessee Central "shopper" train as it came to a stop in Double Springs, TN. Myrtle was looking for her husband and a certain female passenger. Holding the Colt 25 under her apron, Myrtle took her life into her own hands and proceeded to fire a shot at that passenger. The woman fell to the ground.

Myrna Ruth & Jack Bartlett, children of Byron Bartlett & Cora M. (Barnes) Bartlett. Photos courtesy of Frank Williams whose mother Artie Barnes was a sister of Cora M. (Barnes) Bartlett.

Myrtle was arrested by Sheriff A. L. Weeks and her bond was set at $50,000 for murder in the first degree. She entered a plea of not guilty. By September 30, 1923, the all male jury, due to the brilliance and eloquence of her lawyer, Oscar K. Holladay, found Myrtle "not guilty due to insanity."

Myrtle Barnes became active in the politics of the times and was elected to the local Republican Executive Committee of Putnam County. She also became the first female embalmer in the state of Tennessee. She was indeed a well-respected person in the Cookeville community. She died in 1952.

JOHN ADAMS BARNES (#324)

Source: Heritage of Putnam County Tennessee – 2008 by Putnam County Heritage Book Committee and County Heritage Inc.

Pgs. 95 & 96: John Adams Barnes, born February 23, 1801, and died November 30, 1874, became a large land owner in January 1826 when Tennessee Governor William Carroll signed a 275 acre land grant in his favor. Mr. Barnes then owned the land from Stevens Street on the northwest by Burgess Falls Road, south by Wilhite School, east by Old Kentucky Road.

Submitted by Marie Farris.

THE BARNES FAMILY (#323)

Thomas Barnes married Alice Bohannon in 1798 as recorded in Knox County, TN. Alice was the daughter of William Bohannon who migrated from Virginia. Thomas probably migrated from Wilkes Co., NC. In October 1806 there are court minutes concerning road maintenance from the Bohannon farm to the Hunter holding, along what is now the Dry Valley Road, some five to six miles east of Cookeville. In 1806 this was northeastern White County. Bohannon and his family as well as his son-in-law, Thomas Barnes, migrated along the Walton Road to White Plains. They followed the sources of water and beautiful valley land to Dry Valley. Bohannon and his family settled around a large spring which empties into Falling Water River. This spring and the Bohannon's land are immediately east of where I-40 and State Route 70 intersect some five miles east of Cookeville. At this intersection there is a geographical saddle and immediately west of that was Thomas Barnes land. Thomas and Alice had ten children. Alice died in childbirth in 1819 with their fourth son, Thomas Barnes Jr. About two years after Alice's death, Thomas Barnes married Mary "Polly" Strain who lived further down the Dry Valley Road. Thomas and Mary had ten children. Thomas Barnes died in 1851.

The children of Thomas Barnes and Alice Bohannon are:

1. Elizabeth, b. July 8, 1798, married John C. Huddleston
2. Sarah, b. May 5, 1800 married James Bohannon
3. John, b. March 23, 1802 married Margaret Welch
4. Lewis, b. February 22, 1804 married Celia Webb
5. Nancy, b. January 23, 1806 married William York
6. William Hopkins, b. December 7, 1809 married Letita Dodson France
7. Mary Elizabeth "Polly", b. February 26, 1811 married James Denton Buck
8. Susanah, b. August 25, 1814 married a Buckner
9. Rebecca, b. February 23, 1817 married David Buck
10. Thomas E. Jr., b. August 14, 1819 married Mary Oyler

The children of Thomas Barnes and Mary Strain are:

1. Riley, b. November 25, 1822 married Mary Ann Bohannon & Elizabeth Jane Holland
2. Lewisa, b. May 30, 1824 married Kennedy Poteet
3. Roda, b. July 28, 1825 married a Bohannon
4. Jessie, b. November 30, 1828 married Cindarilla Pippin
5. James Marion, b. March 24, 1830 married Sarah Jane Buck
6. Amanda, b. March 2, 1832 married Thomas Jefferson Poteet
7. Lydia, b. May 18, 1834 married Amos Pippin
8. Eleanor, b. 1836 married John Birdsong & John D. Brown
9. Infant, b. & d. 1838
10. Martha Ann, b. 1842 married Gabriel Marion Cooper
