Annie Mae Loftis was the guest of honor at a "This is Your Life" presentation given by relatives and friends at Second Baptist Church in Belton for her 85th birthday.

'This is you Life'

When friends and relatives decided to honor Annie Mae McKee Loftis on her 85th birthday, they used a 'This is Your Life' format to bring out her family members, neighbors and former co-workers. Remember when that show was so popular on television, and the surprised honored guests were reunited with friends from their past.

That's what happened for Annie Mae, and more than 100 people turned out for the event at the Second Baptist Church social hall in Belton July 24.

Mrs. Loftis who is now a resident at Ellenburg Nursing Home, had turned 85 a couple of days earlier on July 22.

Barbara Jean Loftis Roache, a daughter, wrote the script for the event, with the assistance of other relatives, beginning with Annie Mae's birth at the home of Newt and Lula Fullbright McKee on July 22, 1903.
